

Hi, my name is Monopoly. I am a hamster.

I am a fun hamster and I really enjoy life.
This is me dressing up as the Easter Bunny.

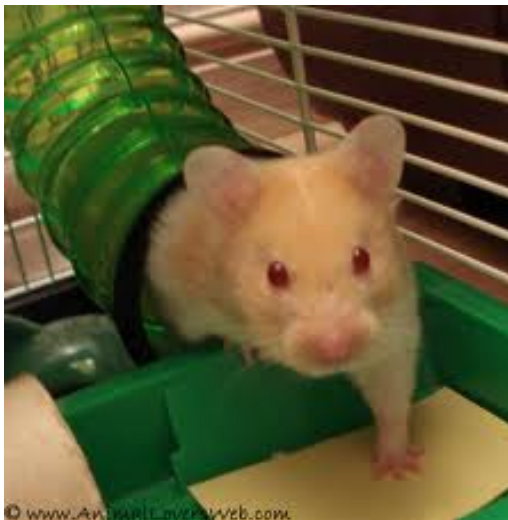

This is my house. It has everything I need. I have a water bottle

... and a wheel.

There are places to run ...

... and places to hide.

It's pretty cool.

I have heard of hamsters that live in manor houses.
One day, I would like to live in a house like this.

There is a little person who looks after me.
She tidies up my home and brings me food and water.
I love her a lot.

I like the food she brings.

The problem is, if I eat too much, I will get fat. I don't want to end up like this.

So, several times a day, I keep myself fit. I run in my wheel ...

... I do weight training ...

... and a lot of climbing.

I play a bit of tennis (not much fun on my own) ...

... and I even fit in the odd round of golf.

Even with all this activity, I sometimes get bored.

Sometimes, I get lonely. Instead of playing on my own

... it would be great to play with a friend.

Sometimes I long for adventure and I wonder what it is like outside my home.

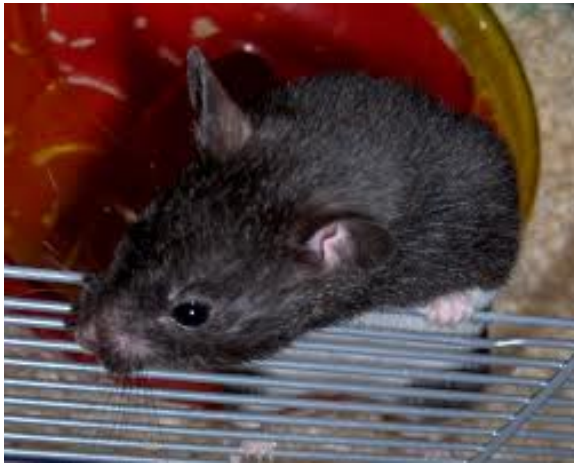

This is strange. My little person had disappeared.
Some big person has been feeding me instead.

I miss my little person. I think I had better go to find her.
Now, if I push hard on this flap ...

... and wriggle a bit, I can climb out of the hole ...

... and get outside.

Now, I can go and look for her.

So, I am going exploring.

This is fun.

I wander all over the place where my little person lives.

I never knew the world was this big.

In fact, it is actually a little scary. I think I am missing my little home.

I know I am missing my cosy bed.

Where is everybody?

Help me! Find me! I am here!

Oh, thank goodness. They found me.

But - What is this? Another hamster?

I have a friend! We can play together ...

... and eat together ...

... and I will never be lonely again.

THE END
